Conference Brochure
6–8 September 2021

About the European Law Institute

The law in Europe has a profound impact on the daily lives of European citizens, companies and organisations. As an independent organisation, ELI aims to improve the quality of law, support its development and contribute to its proper implementation both on a national and European level.

At the heart of ELI's activities are its projects, which can be either short to medium or long term: the former are usually projects that react to current developments, while the latter are proactive in nature and will often take several years of drafting. Alongside Hubs, which are national networks of ELI Members, ELI has also established Special Interest Groups (SIGs), through which it aims to scrutinise the latest, cutting-edge developments in the different fields of law. Participation in ELI activities is encouraged amongst all Members, and those Members wishing to play a particularly significant and decisive role in the functioning of the Institute can stand for election in the ELI Council. ELI Members can also take part in various projects, either as Project Team members or as members of Members Consultative Committees (MCCs). ELI is proud of its diverse membership and values the variety of expertise and perspectives which it brings to the organisation.

The ELI is partly modelled on the American Law Institute (ALI), which was founded in 1923 and has since become a landmark institution in the American legal system. Like its American counterpart, ELI aims to unite jurists of the highest standing from all branches and professions of the law. The Institute operates on its own initiative but is also open for cooperation with other organisations that share its vision. Since its foundation, the Institute has established close working relations with EU Institutions and agencies such as the European Parliament, the European Commission, the Court of Justice of the European Union and the European Union Agency for Fundamental Rights, international organisations such as the Council of Europe, the Organization for Security and Co-operation in Europe, United Nations Commission on International Trade Law and the International Institute for the Unification of Private Law, as well as organisations such as the Council of the Notariats of the European Union, the Council of Bars and Law Societies of Europe, the European Network of Councils for the Judiciary, the Hague Conference on Private International Law and the Academy of European Law. ELI is also grateful for its long-standing successful cooperation with the University of Vienna, which is generously hosting the ELI Secretariat.

Christiane Wendehorst, President

When the ELI was founded 10 years ago, partly modelled on the American Law Institute, it filled a conspicuous gap. Europe has changed since then, and so have the challenges which legislators, courts, and legal professionals have to cope with. What has not changed is the need for a strong European legal community, and for institutions that give this legal community a voice – quite the contrary, this need has become more vital than ever.

Lord John Thomas, 1st Vice-President

The celebration of ELI's 10th anniversary has demonstrated the difference ELI is making across Europe to the development of the law to address the issues of the 21st century. A great amount has been achieved, but as the conference programme also demonstrates much remains to be done at the cutting edge of legal advancement.

Pascal Pichonnaz, 2nd Vice-President

The ELI Decennial celebrations have shown how many ELI projects have addressed core legal issues on the European Continent and beyond. The current projects aim to reinforce the rule of law and fundamental principles, to address digitalisation challenges as well as to tackle environmental and climate concerns by proposing innovative and concrete solutions for legislators in Europe. As shown by this year's Annual Conference, ELI is a wonderful institution to exchange and to reflect upon the various legal cultures and experiences within the EU, the Member States and beyond.

Denis Philippe, Treasurer

ELI is now 10 years old and we never imagined it would have achieved so much since its launch. It now boasts 1,600 Members from across Europe and beyond, excellent and efficient staff, very sound financial management, numerous projects in all legal fields with exceptional quality control procedures as well as an excellent reputation at European and international level. Last but not least, it is a pleasure to observe how ELI Members cooperate with each other in a spirit of genuine enthusiasm. Ad multos annos.

Detailed Programme | Day 1

Monday, 6 September 2021

Principles for a Data Economy: Data Rights and Transactions (with the ALI) | 17:15 – 18:30 (CET)

With the rise of an economy in which data is a globally tradeable asset, there is a need for more certain legal rules applicable to the transactions in which data is an asset. Lack of clarity in this field can hinder innovation and growth and, more importantly, troubles consumers, data-driven industries, and start-ups. ELI and the ALI decided to tackle this uncertainty by developing transnational 'Principles on Data Rights and Transactions'. On 18 May 2021, the current draft was approved by ALI members. The Project Team consisting of Reporters Neil B Cohen and Christiane Wendehorst as well as Chairs Lord John Thomas and Steven O Weise has incorporated the feedback from experts and ELI/ALI bodies to finalise the Principles, which will be submitted for approval to the ELI Membership in September 2021. The webinar will aim at presenting and discussing the Principles and their potential impact on the international legal data economy framework.

Access to Digital Assets: Use of Digital Assets as Security

| 18:45 – 20:00 (CET)

In recent years, a rise of digital assets, which cover a heterogeneous variety of assets such as crypto-currencies, security tokens and social media profiles, can be observed. The first installment of the ELI project on Access to Digital Assets provides Principles to be applied in cases concerning access to digital assets in a financial setting. The Principles are concerned with conventional credit and cover the main aspects of using certain digital assets as security for credit. The Principles are intended as a source of inspiration and guidance for the further development of case law and legislation in the field of digital assets, facilitating the work of international organisations, national legislatures, courts, judicial enforcement officers, public authorities, (civil law) notaries and commercial arbitrators whenever they are dealing with access to digital assets. The webinar will offer an opportunity to discuss the draft output of the ELI project and its overall importance for the development of the law in the field of secured transactions as well further questions arising when digital assets are used as security.

AI and Public Administration – Developing Impact Assessments and Public Participation for Digital Democracy | 10:30 – 11:45 (CET)

New technologies, such as artificial intelligence, can provide several benefits for the functioning of public administration, however, they also entail risks connected to transparency, accountability, compliance and non-discrimination. The Model Rules, which are being developed by the ELI project, provide for an impact assessment of algorithmic decision-making systems used by public administration, emphasising the need for expert audit and public participation in case of high-risk systems. They aim to lay down a basis for developing procedures on artificial intelligence that will not hinder innovation, while providing solid safeguards to improve citizens' confidence in the use of the technology. The webinar will focus on the project's progress and solutions considered to be proposed in light of the overall developments in the field at the EU level.

Speakers

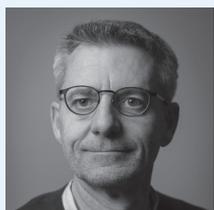

Paul Craig (Chair)
Project Co-Reporter

Paul Craig is Emeritus Professor of English Law, St John's College, Oxford, FBA, QC (Hon). His principal research interests are constitutional law, administrative law, EU law and comparative administrative law. Detailed Programme | Day 2

Tuesday, 7 September 2021

Admissibility of E-Evidence in Criminal Proceedings in the EU | 12:00 – 13:15 (CET)

The issue of the admissibility of evidence gathered in cross-border criminal proceedings in the EU has been on the EU agenda for a long time. Common minimum standards on the gathering and transfer of evidence as well as exclusionary rules are necessary to safeguard fundamental rights and facilitate judicial cooperation at the EU level. The ELI project is developing a legislative proposal on admissibility and exclusionary rules of e-evidence in criminal proceedings, which could ensure effective transnational prosecution of cross-border crime, while strengthening the procedural safeguards for the defendant. The webinar will discuss the project's progress as well as the current state of affairs in the field. In particular, the discussion will focus on three topics: the proposal of limited, but strict exclusionary rules; the acceptance of the lex loci rule as a general principle, only to be softened in case of a breach of constitutional rights in the forum state; and finally, the admissibility of evidence gathered within administrative proceedings in the criminal procedure, taking into account also the criminal proceedings under the European Public Prosecutor's Office.

Detailed Programme | Day 2

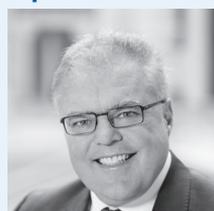

Tuesday, 7 September 2021

The Concept and Role of Courts in Family and Succession Matters | 14:15 – 15:30 (CET)

Most EU private international law instruments presuppose that justice in the area of family and succession law is still mainly administered by courts. However, it is a current trend in the Member States to shift competences in family and succession matters from courts to other authorities such as notaries, civil status officers, child protection agencies, judicial officers, advocates or even private parties themselves. Are the common provisions on jurisdiction, applicable law and recognition and enforcement of foreign judgments fit to deal with this 'de-judicialisation'? Recent case law by the Court of Justice of the European Union (CJEU) suggests that there is a need for reform. This project is developing an outline for a harmonised European concept of courts, including with regard to notaries and other actors traditionally not qualified as courts, building on the approach of the CJEU in its recent case law, to ensure a harmonised application of EU instruments in different Member States by detecting and developing best practices and minimum standards to be fulfilled. The webinar will aim at discussing these issues and presenting the developments in the project.

Speakers

Matthias Neumayr (Chair)
Project Assessor

Matthias Neumayr is Professor of Law at the University of Salzburg's Department of Private Law. He has been a judge since 1984 and a judge of the Austrian Supreme Court since 2001. Climate Justice – New Challenges for Law and Judges

| 15:45 – 17:00 (CET)

In Europe and beyond, individuals and NGOs are demanding more action from governments concerning climate change and are bringing new cases before the courts. While specific legal rules already exist, they might not be adequate to tackling the increasingly urgent challenges; moreover, their implementation by judges seems often questionable from a rule of law perspective. The climate change problems are of cross-border nature, and courts must address extra-territorial issues as well as questions related to both public international and private international law. Indeed, they must find a balance between different levels of law (international legal instruments, European human rights law, EU rules, national constitutional law, private law rules, etc). The risk is that different methodological approaches can result in legal uncertainty to the detriment of individuals' legitimate expectations under the rule of law. This panel aims to explore these and further challenges for legislators and judges related to environmental sustainability and climate justice, and to discuss some preliminary findings.

Speakers

Henrik Andersen (Chair)

Project Proposer

Henrik Andersen is an Associate Professor of International Economic Law at Copenhagen Business School (CBS LAW). He is one of the co-founders of the Nordic Center for Climate Law and Economics (NCCLE). His research addresses in particular the relationship between the law and policies of the World Trade Organization, international climate change law, and the rule of law.

ELI Young Lawyers Award | 19:00 – 19:45 (CET)

This year ELI will again award its Young Lawyers Award, which was officially launched at the 2016 Annual Conference and General Assembly, to a promising young lawyer. The goal of the Award is to provide the young European legal community with a mechanism to propose practical suggestions for the improvement of European law. It is a way of giving voice to future European legal experts and helps ELI in fulfilling its core mission of improving the quality of European law. Applications are open to under- or postgraduate students currently undertaking a law degree at a European university, or those who are within five years of graduation. The 2021 Young Lawyers Award is sponsored by Interleges.

Speakers

He specialises in M&A work and has particular expertise advising clients on the legal and business issues of entering the UK market. In addition, he is a former President of Interleges, the sponsor of the ELI Young Lawyers Award 2021.

ELI SIG and Hub Awards | 19:45 – 20:00 (CET)

Hubs and Special Interest Groups (SIGs) are working groups which have been established for ELI Members to facilitate discussion, share and monitor legal developments, and stimulate project proposals. As such, they are of fundamental importance to ELI's success. Whereas Hubs are country specific groups, SIGs are topic specific. These groups enable ELI Members to meet periodically with each other and form connections with others that can share their expertise, and create an interactive forum for discussion. The Executive Committee extends its thanks to Members who have shown interest in and contributed to the formation and the activities of Hubs and SIGs. The Hub and SIG awards allow ELI to acknowledge the groups whose achievements in the past year have been particularly impressive.

Corporate Sustainability, Financial Accounting and Share Capital | 09:00 – 10:15 (CET)

Sustainable development, including sustainable finance, is one of the values of the EU as set out by the Lisbon Treaty and the need for it has been reiterated by EU Institutions and experts on several occasions. Share capital management and financial accounting thereby play an important role in ensuring sustainable finance and thus corporate sustainability, since only financially robust companies are capable of responding to environmental, social and governance (ESG) considerations, while assuring investor and creditor protections. The ELI project aims to investigate the relationship between corporate sustainability, share capital management and financial accounting to develop a statement of Principles backed by a position paper. The webinar will offer an opportunity to discuss the developments of the project as well as the current state of affairs at the European level.

Ecocide | 10:30 – 11:45 (CET)

The term 'ecocide' refers to the 'devastation and destruction of the environment to the detriment of life', but no legal definition between States has yet been agreed. With the project on Ecocide, ELI aims to identify the elements of the crime of ecocide that may constitute the legal basis for the adoption of EU legislation. At the same time, the project will help raise awareness and muster support in Europe for bringing the crime of ecocide within the Rome Statute. The project will also support the current political and legal actions aimed at imposing an EU-wide and trans-boundary duty of care in order to prevent the risk of and/or actual extensive damage to or destruction of or loss of ecosystem(s) by prohibiting any natural or legal person from committing or aiding and abetting ecocide, through the imposition of criminal or civil sanctions. The webinar will provide an opportunity to discuss, taking also into account the recently presented proposal for a definition of 'ecocide' by Sand's Group, developments in the upcoming ELI project.

Speakers

Fausto Pocar (Chair)
Project Co-Reporter

Fausto Pocar is Professor Emeritus of International Law at the University of Milan. He has been an ad hoc judge at the International Court of Justice since 2017, member of UN Human Rights

Jojo Mehta

Jojo Mehta co-founded Stop Ecocide in 2017, alongside the late Polly Higgins, to support the establishment of ecocide as a crime at the International Criminal Court. As the Executive Director of Stop Ecocide International, she has overseen the growth of the movement whilst coordinating between legal developments, diplomatic traction and public narrative. She is Chair of the Stop Ecocide Foundation and convenor of the Independent Expert Panel for the Legal Definition of Ecocide chaired by Philippe Sands QC and Dior Fall Sow.

ELI-Mount Scopus European Standards of Judicial Independence | 12:00 – 13:15 (CET)

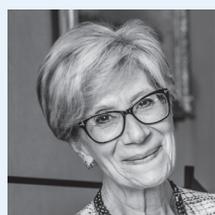

The ELI-Mount Scopus European Standards of Judicial Independence project seeks to provide specific guidance to measure judicial independence in a national legal system, while promoting common standards of judicial independence across the European Union in particular. The project builds upon the Mount Scopus International Standards of Judicial Independence, which were elaborated upon by the International Association of Judicial Independence and World Peace to apply in a broad range of jurisdictions globally. These International Standards are now reviewed, updated and adjusted in particular to the situations of EU judiciaries today. The webinar will aim to discuss the advancement of this project: it will introduce the Team's first attempt at drafting standards relating to disciplinary grounds and procedures against judges as well as broader issues relating to the drafting of standards in this area.

Fundamental Constitutional Principles | 14:30 – 15:45 (CET)

What are and how to define the fundamental constitutional principles which form the foundations of a European liberal democratic State? Assuming that such a State is based on majority rule but is constrained by the obligation to respect the rule of law, including fundamental human rights, this ELI project covers the following principles, among others: democracy; the rule of law; the separation of powers; the right to judicial protection, including judicial independence and judicial control (eg judicial review); accountability, including ministerial responsibility; fundamental rights as a component of the liberal democratic state. The Project Team is elaborating upon a statement of Principles and an aid to the users of law, eg courts. It will contribute to the public debate on the core constitutional values of Europe and will increase the capacities of national authorities to address issues related to judicial cooperation in civil and criminal matters, among others. The purpose of the webinar is to present and discuss the developments in the project.

Detailed Programme | Day 3

The Concept of Corporate Criminal Liability | 16:00 – 17:15 (CET)

Corporations contribute to and profit from crime. From the point of view of society, it only seems fair to hold them liable for the crimes committed to their benefit. However, the liability of corporations for crime is a complex legal question. As a legal entity is a legal fiction, its acts are performed through human beings. The question on how the conduct of human beings can be attributed to the legal entity (by a formal relationship or by a material criterion) remains open. The prospective project will look at existing legal Acts and case law in the EU and its Member States as well as comparative studies with the aim of preparing model rules on the concept of corporate criminal liability. The webinar will offer an opportunity to discuss the current state of affairs in the EU as well as the findings of the ELI feasibility study, touching upon the liability of company directors and officers, the relationship between corporate criminal liability and individual criminal liability and the effectiveness of sanctions with regard to legal persons.

Speakers

EU Private Law

Author: Jürgen Basedow

The book deals with the impact of EU law on private relations. While EU law has principally developed through vertical relations of the Union and its Member States with private persons, its foundations, principles and enforcement mechanisms are increasingly affecting the growing body of EU law governing horizontal relations between individuals and undertakings. The results are sometimes unexpected and sometimes inappropriate.

European Criminal Law 4th ed

Author: André Klip

This fourth edition explains European criminal law as a multi-level field of law, in which the EU has a normative influence on all criminal proceedings, but also on aspects of substantive criminal law and on the co-operation between Member States. It analyses the contours of the emerging criminal justice system of the EU and presents a coherent picture of the legislation enacted, the case law on EU level and its influence on the national criminal justice systems.
