Circular Economy and the Law: Innovation, Policies and Regulation for a Sustainable Environment

6 and 7 June 2019

University of Ferrara

Department of Economics and Management

Via Voltapaletto 11

44121 Ferrara, Italy

Scientific Committee:

Massimiliano Mazzanti and Alberto De Franceschi

A partner event of the European Commission's EUGreenweek 2019

Achieving a Circular Economy is a challenge of increasing importance for businesses, citizens and consumers: innovators, policy-makers and regulators need to create a synergy linking environmental and economic performances.

Against such background, this conference aims to critically assess, in a Law & Economics policy-oriented perspective:

- current policies for achieving a 'Circular Economy';
- management of material flows;
- value, management and rights on waste;
- ways of tackling planned obsolescence – especially in the digital world – as disruptive phenomenon for both environment and consumer rights

In the framework of this conference, the scope, aims and methods of the new UniFe PhD programme in Environmental Sustainability and Wellbeing will be presented and discussed.

The conference is a partner event of the European Law Institute's Italian Hub and of the EUGreenWeek 2019. It is also linked to the INNO4SD network (www.inno4sd.net) and the activities of the new UNIFE research centre CERCIS (Circular Economy, Innovation and SMEs).
